Student feedback mechanism on Institutional Governance / faculty performance	A five-point scale system is used to evaluate the performance of faculty members. After collecting feedback from stakeholders, the Head of the Institution assigns ratings to all faculty members based on the responses received. The Principal then meets with each faculty member individually to communicate the rating obtained through the feedback system. If required, the Principal provides guidance and suggestions to help faculty members enhance their teaching quality and upgrade their knowledge. This initiative encourages faculty members to improve the delivery of subject content and also supports the development of students in areas such as general knowledge, aptitude, communication skills, and other competencies that contribute to better placement opportunities. Furthermore, the Principal reviews and discusses the feedback results with the management to ensure continuous improvement and maintain sustainable quality in teaching and learning processes. The institution has a well-structured feedback system in place. A prescribed feedback format is distributed to stakeholders to collect their opinions regarding the teaching methodologies adopted by faculty members across various disciplines. The feedback also includes inputs on supporting activities undertaken by faculty members for the overall welfare and development of students and the institution.

Grievance Redressal Mechanism

The institution has established a Grievance Redressal Committee to address complaints and grievances raised by students concerning both academic and non-academic matters. To ensure easy access to the grievance redressal mechanism, complaint boxes are placed at prominent and easily accessible locations throughout the college campus. In addition, an online grievance redressal facility is available through the institution's website, enabling students to submit their complaints or concerns conveniently and confidentially.

The grievance boxes are opened periodically, and any complaints received are promptly forwarded to the Grievance Redressal Committee for necessary action. The committee carefully reviews each complaint and, whenever required, invites the concerned students for discussion to understand the issue in detail and ensure appropriate resolution.

Suitable measures are taken to address the grievances in a fair, transparent, and timely manner, ensuring that the concerns of the students are effectively resolved. After the resolution of the issue, students are also provided with guidance and counseling so that they can focus on their academic pursuits without further distress.

Through this systematic mechanism, the institution ensures a supportive and student-friendly environment while promoting the welfare and well-being of students. The grievance redressal process also upholds transparency, accountability, and responsiveness in addressing student concerns.
